HARVEST NATION

A CSA FARM

Subscription Farm Sales

Harvest Nation's indoor, aeroponic farm provides fresh, local, tasty and nutritious produce year-round using the Community Supported Agriculture (CSA) farm sales model.

CSA farms offer a healthier, sustainable alternative to the current mass-transport distribution system, since sales are based on subscriptions direct with local customers.

Customers pay for a subscription to the farm to have a share of its produce available to them every week! The subscription usually is for one season. Since Harvest Nation is growing food indoors, it has year round availability of farm shares. You can sign up at any time.

The CSA model fulfills Harvest Nation's social mission to carryout Food Sovereignty Movement principles, where the company has aligned its core values to promote: 1) The local production and affordable access to healthy food; 2) Culturally appropriate food; 3) Food system outreach and education; 4) And the use of environmentally sound business practices.

People subscribe to a CSA for several reasons. First, the quality of food items is much better than what is found at the grocery store. Harvest Nation is using all heirloom, non GMO seeds to grow our food, selected for premium flavor and nutrition. CSA customers are excited by the novelty of rotating items in their farm share boxes week to week, and enjoy the personal relationship with local farmers.

We can't wait to serve you our Harvest Shares through a subscription to our family farm. ~Sincerely, Denise, Tracey, Nikki, and Dani.
